High School Seniors Are Welcomed to STC

Today, tomorrow and Friday, STC will be host to high school seniors from ten of Maryland's twenty-three counties. By playing this role each year, our college proposes to give possible future students some idea of what we have to offer in the line of educational, social, and cultural facilities.

Today, students from Dorchester, Somerset, Worcester and Kent Counties are expected. Thursday, seniors from Caroline, Cecil, Harford, Queen Anne's and Talbot Counties will be guests, and Friday Wicomico County students will arrive.

From 9:30 to 10:00 o'clock, registration will be held in the main corridor of the building. Following this, small groups will be guided by STC Freshmen to class sessions, informal conversation with student leaders, tours of buildings and campus, and academic conferences with the Dean, Registrar and faculty (Continued on Page 3)

John Ciardi, Noted Poet, Speaks to STC Students

Professor John Ciardi spoke on "The Role of the Writer in Today's World" in a student assembly yesterday. Dr. Elderdice introduced the Rutgers University professor of English.

Best known to the American public as a literary critic and the poetry editor of The Saturday Review, Professor Ciardi is acclaimed in literary circles for his translation of Dante's Inferno. He has published five volumes of poetry and numerous magazine articles.

The forty-one-year-old poet-author has received many literary citations including the Prix de Rome, the Avery Hopwood Award in Poetry, and four consecutive awards from Poetry, a Magazine of Verse.

In addition to these, he received an Air Medal and Oak Leaf Cluster while serving as a B29 gunner in the Saipan-based offensive against Japan.

Professor Ciardi began his teaching career in 1940 at the University of Kansas City. Before coming to Rutgers University he taught at Harvard and the Salzburg Seminar in American Studies. He is on the Board of Directors of the National College English Association.

Salisbury FTA Will Host MAFTA Convention

Saturday, November 16, will be the day when 500 students from every section of Maryland will journey to STC to take part in the annual Fall Convention of the Maryland Association of Future Teachers of America. The purpose of this convention is to review the professional progress made in the organization and to gain new experiences in order to improve and make more meaningful the respective local and state groups.

The program is to be centered around the theme "Careers in Teaching." FTA members will be provided an opportunity to meet experienced persons who have demonstrated successful accomplishment in their field.

Five Candidates Announced For Inclusion In Who's Who

Over-all Recognition for Outstanding American College Students - Who's Who

Each year from the members of the senior class a roster of candidates is chosen for inclusion in the annual listing of Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities. The selection of candidates stresses distinction in scholarship, leadership, campus activities, and general service to the school. The Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities is designed as an over-all recognition for outstanding American college students.

Topping the listing, in alphabetical order, is Joanne Cathell from Berlin, Md. Miss Cathell has been outstanding in sports as well as in publications work. She is presently editor of The Holly Leaf, as well as co-captain of the field hockey team. During her junior year she served as a copy editor for The Evergreen, and is again this year a member of that staff. She has also participated in Women's Varsity Basketball during her college years.

Frank Gentle, a resident of New York, has been active in a variety of organizations during the past three years. He was assistant editor of The Holly Leaf during his junior year; vice-president of the Newman Club during his junior year; and a member of the College Chorus during his sophomore year. He is also remembered for his performances with the Sophanes Players.

Louise Holbrook is serving this year as president of the WAA. Active in the sports program she (Continued on Page 4)

Editorially Speaking

A teacher must definitely have a knowledge in his specific subject area. But, and it is widely recognized, more than this is demanded of today's teacher.

Often it is necessary that he be proficient in other subject areas as well as his own. Character and citizenship must be developed in our young citizens; this responsibility belongs, to a great degree, to the teacher.

Lessons must be presented to the pupils in such a manner as to motivate them and thus provide for greater learning. Therefore the teacher must make use of every available and appropriate facility in order to incorporate varied methods in his everyday teaching.

Then too, it falls upon the teacher to take part in extra-curricular activities. He is often called upon to serve as a sponsor or as an advisor to school clubs or organizations.

It becomes, then, a responsibility of our teacher training institutions to provide as varied a program to the students as is possible in order to meet these many needs. Our colleges are advancing rapidly in this direction. But the State Teachers Colleges are neglecting the possibilities offered in the realms of journalism and dramatics.

True, there is a dramatics club, a newspaper, and an annual here on our campus. But only a limited number of students are involved in these activities. The majority of STC students do not come into contact with these fields, as participants, during their college career.

This is indeed unfortunate as these activities help in the enrichment of college life. Having no formal training and perhaps no previous experience, most students are not interested in joining into these activities as an active member.

But these things can be used in our lives upon leaving college as well as during college life. Dramatics can be used very effectively in the elementary or junior high classroom both, as a motivating device and as a teaching medium. A knowledge and an understanding of the field of journalism and its vast facets can serve, not only as a learning in itself, but also as a tool toward more learning. Are our teachers adequately prepared though to utilize these facilities?

As mentioned, many teachers are called upon to take part in extra-curricular activities. But are they prepared to engage in such affairs as the sponsorship of the school yearbook, newspaper, literary magazine, the dramatics club, or even a class play? Many times (far too many) they are not. They are lacking the background necessary for such an undertaking. Has the college lived up to its obligations in this respect?

It is true that teachers colleges should prepare teachers and not journalists or thespians. But in order to help teacher training students feel more completely competent in their profession varied subject matter must be offered to them. Why not start with classes, open to all students, in basic journalism and dramatics? This would be another step forward in providing a well-rounded program for the student. Not only will his college life be enriched, but he will be a better qualified teacher.

FTA CONVENTION

Friday evening and on Saturday morning. Following this the first general session will be held. James E. Lightner, president of MAFTA will preside. Greetings and introductions are to be given by Dr. Wilbur Devilbiss, president of the College, Mr. Rollie Hastings, Mayor of Salisbury, and Mrs. Barbara Carstens, president of the Salisbury chapter. The keynote address is to be given by Mr. Milson C. Raver, Executive Secretary of the Maryland State Teachers' Association.

In the afternoon discussion groups concerned with kindergarten, elementary, junior high, senior high, and college will be held. A film, "Not By Chance" is to be shown and as a culminating activity a Farewell Tea is to take place.

Acting as host, under the leadership of Dr. Leila Stevens, the Salisbury group is planning to make this convention a most enjoyable one. The College Chorus is to sing. A guided tour of the campus has been planned including the demonstration school.

Mrs. Barbara Carstens Elected FTA President

On October 31, the Future Teachers of America held a meeting at which time Mrs. Barbara Carstens was elected to fill the office of president of that organization. This office had been vacated by its president, Gary White, early in October due to other pressing duties.

Mrs. Carstens is a member of the Senior Class and is enrolled under the Elementary Education curriculum. A member of the chorus, she served as president of that club last year.

An interesting and quite different panel discussion was held during this meeting. The panel consisted of four Wicomico Senior High students and two members of the sixth grade of the Campus Elementary School. The topic of discussion was "What Do I Expect of a Teacher?" Each member of the panel gave his ideas on this subject.

The meeting was then thrown open to the floor. Interesting points were brought out in the discussion, both by the panel members and by FTA members. The FTA hopes to be able to have these students back at a future meeting as it feels that much was learned from this type of program.

Snack Bar Committee Plans Future Purchases

Although the achievements of the Snack Bar Committee are numerous, little is known concerning the members and purposes of the committee.

The committee is composed of six members: Mr. A. L. Fleming, Dr. Robert Elderdice, Mrs. Margaret Ennis, Henry Hausdorf, Delores Gardner, and William Livingston.

The purposes of the committee are to discuss and attempt to discover a solution to all problems regarding the Snack Bar. At the present time, the foremost concern is the untidy and disrespectful condition of the Snack Bar. Various means to combat this condition have been suggested and the committee has to resort to drastic measures if necessary.

Many additions have been made within the past year, and many more lie ahead in the future. All purchases are made for the purpose of benefiting the needs of the student body. This can be readily seen in such additions as the ping-pong table, the furniture, the table model printing press, (Continued on Page 4)

Varied Program Keynotes Orchestral Performance

The first in a series of three Baltimore Symphony Orchestra concerts was presented in the college auditorium on Thursday, November 7, at 8:30 p.m.

Among the selections on the program were Sir William Walton's "Johannesburg Festival Overture," Maurice Ravel's "Rhapsodie Espagnole," Alexis Chabrier's "Suite Pastorale," and Johannes Brahms' "Symphony No. 1 in C Minor."

During that afternoon, at 4:00 p.m., also in the auditorium, the Orchestra gave a youth concert. The selections rendered at this time were Rossini's "Overture to William Tell," Bach's "Little Fugue in G Minor," the First Movement of Schubert's "Symphony No. 8 in B Minor," Vaughan-Williams' "Fantasia on Green-sleeves," the Prelude, Argonaise, and Toreador Song from Bizet's "Carmen," the Polka from "Shostakovich's "Age of Gold," Gould's "American Salute," and Anderson's "Sleigh Ride."

Christmas Eve is the most dangerous holiday period of the year for motorists, the National Safety Council warns.

SOCCER SWEETHEART—Miss Connie Mears was elected by the soccer squad as Soccer Sweetheart for 1957. A member of the junior class, Miss Mears was honored at the Homecoming Dance on November 2 at which time she received a lovely bouquet of fall flowers.

After luncheon in the Dining Hall, Dr. Devilbiss will welcome the visitors and Henry Hausdorf will present greetings from the Student Government Association. At 1:45, the program of entertainment will open in the auditorium.

The program will be opened by two songs by the College Chorus. The Women's Physical Education department will then present a modern choreographic interpretation to "Rhapsody in Blue." The Sophomore girls participating in this are Pat Bailey, Joyce Bennett, Julia Crawford, Helen Mae Ellis, Carolyn Higgins, and Pat Ray. Lighting will be done by Victor Davis and Don Moore.

The second feature number will be a presentation of three songs by the Men's Chorus. The third will be a Snack Bar scene, at which time Sandy Sherman and Victor Davis will dance. The program will close with the College Chorus singing the Alma Mater.

Social Hour in the College Social Room will close the program for the day.

On a Photo of Sgt. Ciardi a Year Later

(Editor's Note: The following is a poem by John Ciardi, poet and critic. Mr. Ciardi was a visitor on campus yesterday and spoke to the students in an assembly.)

"The camera never lies . . ." or does it? This poem takes up again our problem of "fact" and interpretation.

The Sgt. stands so fluently in leather, So poster-holstered and so news-reel-jawed As death's costumed and fashionable brother. My civil memory is overawed.

Behind him see the circuses of doom. Dance a finale chorus on the sun. He leans on gun sights, doesn't give a damn For dice or stripes, and waits to see the fun.

The cameraman whose ornate public eye Invented that fine bravura look of calm

At murderous clocks hung ticking in the sky Palmed the deception off without a quailm.

Even the camera, focused and exact To a two dimensional conclusion, Uttered its formula of physical fact. Only to lead data to illusion.

The camera always lies. By a law of perception The obvious surface is always an optical ruse. The leather was living tissue in its own dimension. The holsters held benzadrine tablets, the guns were no use.

The careful slouch and dangling cigarette Were always superstitious as Amen. The shadow under the shadow is never caught: The camera photographs the cameraman.

The girls' hockey team can be seen proudly sporting their new uniforms. Maroon tunics, they are worn with white blouses. Numbers, in white, are displayed on the tunics. Also purchased for the team are sweat pants for those cold afternoons.

The junior varsity squad wear white gym suits at present for their games. Eventually uniforms are to be purchased for them.

has been a member of the varsity hockey team and basketball team during her entire career at STC. Last year she was honored as Best Woman Athlete. Secretary of the SGA in her junior year, she served also as treasurer of the Christian Association. Rounding out her varied activities, Miss Holbrook was a reporter on The Holly Leaf during her junior year and a cheerleader in her sophomore and junior years. She is a resident of Snow Hill, Maryland.

Helen Layman of Royal Oak, Maryland has proved a valued asset to publications here on campus. Active on The Holly Leaf staff, she acted as editor during her junior year and is this year a member of the staff. A copy editor of the college yearbook, The Evergreen, she has participated in intramural basketball and is a faithful member of the Wesley Foundation, the Philosophy Club and the STC Bowling League.

Rebecca Matthews, a Virginian from Parksley, concludes the list of successful collegians. An Achievement Key winner in her sophomore and junior years, she was secretary of her junior class. Miss Matthews has contributed much to the musical life of the college, having been a member of the College Chorus for four years. Treasurer of that organization in her junior year, she is, this year, president. She is also president of the STC Wesley Foundation and a member of the Holly Leaf staff.

The scholastic ability of the above students is of high standing. They have merited academic averages, ranging from 2.8 to 3.4.

Soccer Squad Suffers Second Loss of Season

The STC soccer team traveled to Baltimore University on October 30 to play its second game. They should have stayed at home and listened to Governor McKeldin's dissertation on state-constructed libraries since he has been in public office.

The Salisbury lads suffered their second defeat in as many outings, losing this one 4-1. The superior Baltimore team was on the short end 1-0 at the first quarter's termination. Murray Smith, the man with the "educated toe," had booted in STC's goal. The Baltimore boys bounced back, however, and proceeded to add another victory to their record in one of STC's roughest games. It is to be noted however that this marked the first time the Baltimore team had been scored upon this season.

That week brought only sad news to Coach Maggs. The next practice after defeat to Baltimore University, "Mickey" Wigglesworth, varsity goalie, broke his wrist. Another mishap to Maggs' hopes was the cancellation of the Alumni game on November 2—Wayne Smith

Hockey Squad Takes Three at Maryland

Sixteen STC students attended the Sports Program held at the University of Maryland on Saturday, November 9. Colleges around the Baltimore and Washington area were invited to participate in hockey and tennis tournaments scheduled throughout the day. Those colleges represented were Trinity, Notre Dame, Mt. Vernon, Galluadet, Marymount, Marjorie Webster, University of Maryland, George Washington, and Salisbury STC.

Salisbury took part in three games of field hockey. The first game was played with Trinity. The STC girls won 3-1 with Pat Lloyd scoring all three of the goals. STC's second game, versus George Washington, proved another victory, 4-0. Helen Ellis scored three of the four tallies and Adrienne Nock came through with the other point.

After lunch, the undefeated Salisbury team met and defeated Notre Dame 2-0. Both points were driven into the goal by Helen Ellis.

Three STC students, Norma Baker, Pauline Osinski, and Nancy Sutton played on the George Washington team as they had an incomplete team. Pauline Osinski scored a point for that team.

Mrs. Mary Alice Dyer represented Salisbury on the tennis courts. She showed great skill and won two out of three games she played.

After completion of both tournaments an All Star Team was selected. This team was made up of students from the various colleges. Emily Burns, center half-back, received an honorable mention to this team.

From Field Hockey to Basketball in Minutes

On November 1, the Women's Varsity Hockey Squad, plus six cheerleaders — Connie Mears, Mary Wright, Jerry Baker, Bob Fitzgerald, Victor Davis, and Don Moore—left Salisbury to play Towson State Teachers College. Upon arrival it was discovered that the field was much too wet from the recent rain to permit playing the scheduled game.

However, the trip was not in vain; a basketball team, made up of the hockey team members, was formed, to play a team of Towson, similarly constructed. As this basketball game progressed much enthusiasm was shown, and it was discovered that hockey players can also play basketball.

The game ended in a tie score—22-22. High scorers for Salisbury were Pat Hutson and Mike Shortall.

Following the game, the Salisburyans enjoyed supper with the Towsonites.

In the future, it is planned to purchase a television set for the new student lounge, in addition to a new microphone and, in conjunction with the SGA, a high-fidelity set. The committee welcomes suggestions from the student body concerning the snack bar; all suggestions will be gratefully accepted.
